

NENA is a network of innovation and sustainability oriented enterprises and umbrella organisations across the Alps that has been developed within the framework of the European Interreg IIIB project. The TIS innovation park is one of the founding members. NENA has been created with the aim to render alpine enterprises more innovative and competitive whilst increasing their contribution to sustainable development. At the moment, NENA concentrates on the value added chain of wood, on renewable energies, on energy efficiency and on ecological building. It offers its members the possibility for long term cross-national cooperation, joint projects and know-how exchange.
